Panel: Leaders of Today
Youth as Drivers of Sustainability and Environmental Justice

What could intergenerational collaboration look like in sustainability?

In what ways do you feel that young people are a unique driving force in sustainability?

What is one thing that you wish that older generations would understand about youth in sustainability?

What are the most important skills you've learned that have helped you as a sustainability leader, and which skills are you hoping to learn in the future?

How would you go about fostering meaningful connections between young people and their older counterparts?
