Happy Holidays!

Sweet Deal

The Office of Sustainability and UT Dallas Dining Services partnered to provide Comet Honey for a $5 donation at the last Pop-Up Farmers' Market. Despite freezing temperatures, the 140 bottles quickly sold out! Honey was harvested by Dr. Scott Rippel with the help of Eco Reps. The donations will go toward funding future Eco Rep projects. Find out when the next batch will be sold by following the UTD Sustainability Instagram account and Facebook page!

Viva Volunteer

Did you know that UT Dallas has more than 6,700 trees on campus? As part of the Office of Student Volunteerism's Viva Volunteer event, students planted 6 red oak trees in recognition of Texas Arbor Day! Texas Arbor Day is held on the first Friday of November because the weather is more favorable for tree growth than in the late spring when National Arbor Day takes place. Watch a video of the event and explore UT Dallas's Tree Inventory on the Office of Sustainability website!

Sustainability in South Africa

GEOS 4V08 is a study abroad course where students will gain firsthand experience on how South Africans live under severe drought conditions. The course includes a two-week visit. Find out more about the class here.

EPICS Abroad

EPCS 3100 combines traditional classroom learning, community-based service learning, and onsite field experience to give students firsthand exposure to problems affecting the Batwa Pigmy population in Uganda. The course includes a two-week visit. Find out more about the course here.
